Gambling Vote Fails to Get Okay of Group

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — A committee of the Arkansas Legislature last night rejected an attempt to get a public vote on a proposed constitutional amendment that would legalize gambling in Garland County.

The joint Constitutional Amendments Committee turned down a motion for a "do pass" recommendation on the resolution.

Sen. Elihu Fagan of Little Rock brought up the resolution, which would have placed the gambling proposal on the November 1958 general election ballot.

Sen. C. E. Yingling of Searcy, committee chairman, broke a 10-10 voting tie by opposing Fagan's move.

Only three amendments for the ballot can be approved by the Legislature.

The committee had nearly 40 proposed amendments before it last night. The three it recommended were proposals to:

1. Let first and second class cities, incorporated towns and counties issue bonds for development and to authorize a special tax of not more than 5 mills.
2. Make the salaries of legislators $1,200 per year instead of the present $1,200 biennially and raise the House speaker's salary to $1,350 annually; and give each legislator $20 each day the General Assembly is in session, plus 5 cents a mile to and from the state Capitol and $8 daily for special sessions.
3. Provide that no ad valorem tax shall be levied on property by the state.

Reaction to the committee's rejection of the gambling amendment followed swiftly.

At Hot Springs last night, Garland Rep. Dan Wolf suggested that a public meeting be held immediately to lay groundwork for getting the proposal on the ballot as an initiated act.

This would require more than 30,000 signatures of qualified voters and petitions could not be signed until after voters pay poll taxes next year.

Sen. Q. Byrum of Hot Springs, who with Wolf has backed efforts to obtain legalized gambling in the county, said, "We have to organize for this thing just like we did for the Oaklawn measure."

He referred to a successful campaign to obtain a permanent franchise for the Oaklawn Jockey Club, which operates its horse racing track at Hot Springs.

The amendment to the Highway Department budget fixes the hourly rate for laborers at $1, for truck drivers and moving machine operators at $1.25 and for bulldozer and motor patrol operators at $1.55. County and area policemen would receive at least $3.50 per month.

Rep. Ode Maddox of Montgomery.

Van Doren Is Dethroned in TV Contest

NEW YORK (AP) — An attractive woman lawyer with a knowledge of kings last night dethroned Charles Van Doren from his 14-week reign as ruler of NBC's Twenty-One television quiz program.

By bumping Van Doren off the show, Mrs. Vivienne Neering, a 39-year-old blonde, picked up $14,000 and replaced the Columbia University instructor as star of the show.

It dropped Van Doren's overall winnings to $129,000, but still left him television's top winner on any single quiz show.

Mrs. Neering, whose lawyer husband Victor was one of Van Doren's previous victims, took advantage of a rules option to halt the game when she was ahead 17-10.

Van Doren had missed the first question and didn't let the 10 points he was trying for because of his inability to name Baudouin as the king of Belgium. It was one part of a six-part question dealing with the names of the kings of Denmark, Norway, Sweden, Belgium, Jordan and Iraq.

Mrs. Neering, who had first shot at it, correctly named the kings in order as Frederick, Baudouin, Hussein and Faisal.

Van Doren answered five correctly but stumbled over Baudouin. He mopped his brow and muttered, "The son of Leopold, the son of Leopold... I know that name." He couldn't come up with it but finally made a guess, admitting that it was probably wrong. He named the present king as Leopold, who actually is the father of Baudouin.

It left Mrs. Neering ahead 10-0. Playing it cautiously, the woman challenger selected a question that rated only at seven points in difficulty. She named Angola as the specific type of goat that yields mohair.

Van Doren, shooting the works, tried and made a 10-point question by naming the poddy, bulldog, Dalmatian, chow and Boston terrier as five breeds of non-sporting dogs.

At this juncture, Mrs. Neering, in a booth sealed off from Van Doren, exercised a program option and stopped the game while she was ahead 17-10. It was a sheer guess on her part, for she had no knowledge of what questions Van Doren was asked or answered. She said she just operated on a hunch, a right one as it turned out.

The Texarkana robbery occurred about 10:05 p. m. the cab driver, listed as T. J. Adams, was forced from his cab at gunpoint near Texarkana. He caught a ride and notified officers who in turn alerted surrounding cities.

Officers Burke, Sinyard and Anderson apprehended the two young robbers as they approached the Hope City limits. They were turned over to Police Chief Max Tarkett of Texarkana, Ark.

Queen Escapee Is Recaptured

DEQUEEN, (UP) — A 29-year-old Detroit ex-convict, August H. Draft, was captured a half hour after he escaped from Sevier County Jail here yesterday.

Draft, sentenced Saturday in circuit court to 10 years in the state penitentiary for forgery and uttering, pushed his way out when his cell door was opened for repairs to the floor.

State Trooper Scrub Mosier followed the fleeing Draft in his car until Draft ran out of breath. Draft then gave up without a struggle.

Officers said Draft had a criminal record in Michigan and several other states.

Report Has PSC Writing Report for Committee

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Rep. Hardy Croxon of Benton County today said that he was "disturbed" about rumors that the Public Service Commission had written a report for a special House committee which is making an inquiry into PSC practices.

In meeting of the special committee and the PSC, Croxon said that the commission had prepared a report for the committee to present as its own work.

"The commission gave the committee overall background information on things we think the public is interested," PSC Chairman Lewis Robinson said.

Croxon said that he was "concerned that the commission made up the report rather than the committee itself. I understand it was mostly laudatory comments on the commission."

Robinson replied: "The committee did not have to use that part of it."

Croxon submitted 12 written questions to the commission and Robinson said the PSC would provide the answers tomorrow.

One of the questions asked the PSC for comment on a rate increase granted Arkansas Louisiana Gas Co. in December, 1955. Croxon said in the question that the order allowed Ark-La "a rate of six per cent on domestic consumers and eight per cent on industrial users; a prospectus dated Jan. 14, 1957, shows that Ark-La Gas Co. had an overall rate of return on its investment value of 11.4 per cent."

Robinson gave the committee affidavits from himself and former PSC member J. M. Malone of Lonoke stating that neither of the men nor their families any stock in utilities or affiliated interests. PSC member William Berry of Stuttgart told the committee he had given a similar statement to Sen. Marshall Shackelford early in the session.

Mayor Tells Why He Refused to Take a Lie Test

By HERBERT FOSTER AND JOHN A. GOLDSMITH WASHINGTON (UP) — Mayor Terry D. Schruck of Portland, Ore., said today he walked out on a lie detector test because it was a "fishing expedition" by the Secret Service and Senate Rackets committee aimed at "making me stink."

Schrunk answered under oath today five of the questions he balked at answering to the lie detector. But he told the committee they were "tricky" questions designed to trip him.

Chairman John L. McClellan (D-Ark.) sternly asked if Schrunk wanted to leave in the record in charge that the committee staff could influence the Secret Service.

"I do, yes," said the 43-year-old mayor.

"That's a serious reflection on the Secret Service, McClellan said. 'I don't believe that is correct.'"

"I hope it's not correct," said Schrunk. He said the statement was "not a charge. . . it's a personal opinion."

Schrunk walked out on the partially completed test at Secret Service headquarters yesterday. He had requested the test to support his denial on Friday of charges that, as Multnomah County (Portland) sheriff in 1955, he accepted a $500 bribe from a gambler.

Death Claims Explorer Richard Byrd

BOSTON (AP) — Rear Adm. Richard E. Byrd, 68, noted explorer who headed two Arctic and five Antarctic expeditions, died in his sleep at his home last night.

His doctors said he died of a heart ailment brought on by overwork.

He was the over-all head of Navy's huge Operation, Deep Freeze in Antarctica in this International Geophysical Year, but his failing heart kept him from assuming on-the-spot supervision.

His wife and four children were at his bedside when he passed away at 6:20 p.m. at his home at the foot of Beacon Hill.

Seven Freight Cars Derailed Here

Several cars ran through a switch in the Missouri Pacific yards this morning and seven derailed. Although none of the cars overturned at least three were badly damaged. The incident occurred about 8 a. m. on a passing track that leads into Hope Brick Works. Crews are expected to have the cars cleared soon. No rail traffic was stopped by the accident.

Labor Leader Now Willing to Testify

SEATTLE (AP) — President Dave Beck of the Teamsters Union says he has notified Sen. McClellan (D-Ark.) that he will appear before the Senate Rackets investigating committee "on a date mutually satisfactory."

Beck made the announcement in an exclusive interview yesterday with Douglass Welch, veteran Post-Intelligencer reporter. The union leader was not available for interviews by other newsmen after his return Sunday from Europe ahead of schedule.

Beck said his appearance before the Senate committee would have to be before June 2 "when I must again return to Europe."

Beck said he had come home from Europe this time because of the withdrawal by Secretary of Labor Mitchell of his credentials to the International Labor Organization convention in Geneva.

Relative to this action Beck said it was "in effect a pre-judgment of me and it was politically inspired."

He termed statements about him by James B. Carey, an AFL-CIO vice president and one of his bitterest critics in the labor organization, "the intinulations of a automa-mouth."

And he added: "It is my personal and considered judgment that Mr. Carey has less standing with the Executive Council of the AFL-CIO and the responsible people of labor than any man I know of in the American labor movement."

Carey said in a television interview Sunday that he questions Beck's "fitness" to lead the teamsters. He said Beck should either accept the AFL-CIO's ethical practices code or resign.

Carey said Beck is "not in agreement with AFL-CIO policy, its constitution or its ethical code — which bars from union office anyone commonly known to be a criminal or racketeer."

At the same time Carey said "I don't know Mr. Beck can be considered a crook."

Egyptians, UN Envoy Discuss the Gaza Strip

CAIRO (AP) — U. N. Undersecretary Ralph Bunche began meetings with Egyptian officials today to discuss Egypt's announced plan to resume control of the Gaza Strip.

Although U. N. officials in New York sought to minimize the importance of the Egyptian move, fears of a serious new Middle East crisis mounted. U. S. and Israeli officials expressed alarm, and there was talk that the General Assembly might be called back into session.

Bunche met with Col. Salah Gohar, head of the Egyptian Palestine Department, and later was to see Deputy Foreign Minister Abdel Fattah Hassan. Foreign Minister Mahmoud Fawzi is on his way home from the U. N. Assembly.

Bunche, who won the Nobel Prize for negotiating the Palestine armistice in 1949, was reported trying to iron out differences between Egypt and the U. N. Emergency Force over administration of the Mediterranean coastal strip Israel withdrew from last week.

There was no word in Cairo when Egyptian officials actually would start to take over from UNEF. U. N. sources in the Egyptian capital indicated they hoped Egypt could be persuaded to delay, at least for a short time.

Bunche, after the Egyptian announcement, said the U. N. has never "questioned Egypt's legal rights regarding Gaza." But at U. N. headquarters a source close to Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold termed the Egyptian action regrettable.

Okays Bill to Change School Election Date

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — A bill in the Legislature to change the annual Arkansas school election date from March to December will have no effect on the election scheduled next Saturday. Gov. Orval Faubus said today.

Faubus said that if the bill should reach his desk before Saturday, he will wait until after that day to sign it.

Proponents of the bill said that the change would permit school boards to make a closer study of property assessment evaluations before setting the school millage.

The governor said he was not disappointed at the defeat of the watershed bill by the House yesterday. The bill, a companion measure to a bill setting up the Water Conservation Commission, would permit the formation of watershed districts to conserve and control surface water. Faubus indicated that he favored further study of the controversial water legislation.

U. S. Still Recognizes Free China

By DONALD E. HUTH

CANBERRA, Australia (AP) — Secretary of State Dulles today said the United States "adheres steadfastly" to its recognition of Nationalist China and its opposition to giving China seat in the United Nations to the Communist Peking regime.

Dulles made the statement to the SEATO Council of Ministers, which continued closed-door sessions of its third annual conference.

American secretary said he wanted to make the U. S. policy clear to America's allies in Southeast Asia, not to bring China policy before the SEATO Council for debate.

"Our policy," he said, "stems primarily from consideration to national interest and, we believe, international interest."

"United States diplomatic recognition of the Chinese Communist regime would serve no national purpose," he declared, "but would strengthen and encourage influence hostile to us and to our allies and further unprincipled lands whose independence is related to our own peace and security."

Dulles said the United States has reached a similar conclusion with regard to admission of Red China to the United Nations.

"The United Nations would not be strengthened if the Communists were there to represent China and we cannot see that they have any right to this role," he declared.

Pointing out that the U. N. Charter specified that membership should be composed only of peace-loving nations, Dulles said Red China could hardly qualify since she still stands condemned by the U. N. as an aggressor in Korea.

Winding up the opening review of general policy, delegates from Australia, New Zealand and France addressed the council. Dulles and representatives of Britain, the Philippines, Pakistan and Thailand had made their policy statements yesterday.

A communiqué issued after yesterday's closed session said agreement was reached "on the need to maintain vigilance in countering manifold Communist policies designed to subvert and divide the free nations in the treaty area."

"Speakers reported that in the military field, while the size of the forces remained much the same, their defensive capacity had much increased," the communiqué said.

At the sidewalk cafe, he began to talk. "Sekkou is a strange place . . . you will find some very funny things."

THE STORY: Allan Larg and his wife Mollie have gone to Tunisia en route to visit Sekkou, the home of a famous member of the Scott's house who became a Kaid in the Barbary pirate days. In Tunisia, however, they learn of trouble in Sekkou.

CHAPTE II

Allan could not have hidden his disappointment if he had waited to, and he made no effort to do so. "Surely it's safe for British people."

"Sekkou might be; but I doubt if Naïl is; and I'm quite sure the French won't want any Europeans 'boking about' there, as you call it, and particularly not British or Americans."

"Look, I've set my heart on going there. Would you feel it your duty, as Consul-General, to stop me going?"

The Consul thought, and then spoke with an air of decision. "No, I wouldn't. I would think it my duty — I do think it my duty — to advise you not to go there while there's tension; but I certainly wouldn't stop you."

"Then I'd better not ask you for any help."

"I'm sorry to appear ungracious, but that's exactly the form I'll give you any advice I can, unofficially. If you do decide to go, and I was laying a bet on whether or not you'll get into trouble, I would give you ten to one against; but quite seriously I think I'm justified in suggesting that you don't take your wife dawn there.

"You don't know my wife, of course," said Allan, laughing. "M. Le Boutellier was not at all what Allan had expected. He had thought to find an elderly savant; he found instead a brisk, well-dressed young man, not more than 30, with a Legion of Honor rosette in his buttonhole, speaking fairly good English."

"I understand from Mr. Stewart that you are interested in the history of the Corsairs."

"Well, yes," said Allan. He had read Stewart's letter.

"Mind you, said Le Boutellier, 'I'm not an expert on the Corsairs; it is only my hobby — what is the English word My hobby. But nobody with an historic mind could live here in Tunis for 1 years as I have done, without becoming interested. Then there was the great Captain Larg who look at Allan. "Was an imbecile I am! That's the one you are interested in. A parent."

"No, not a parent," said Allan, aghast. "He lived ages ago."

Le Boutellier nearly laughed his head off.

"He was a relation, all right; and you're quite right, it's his I'm interested in. He was two or three months to spare, and I thought I'd come to Tunisia and see if I could find trace of him."

Le Boutellier pursed his lips and looked very thoughtful indeed. Then he rang a bell, and waited, still thoughtfully, until an Arab clerk came and answered.

"I'm going out with this gentleman for half an hour," he said in French. "I'll be back in the office at a quarter to six."

Le Boutellier reached for his hat, bowed Allan before him out of the door and down the stairs, and led him to the Colisée cafe. There, sitting in the street, he began to talk over a period for him and a Cirtaño gin for Allan.

"Sekkou," he began, "is a very funny place. I know no place like Sekkou. Do you know anything about it at all?"

"Not a thing," said Allan.

"It has a very ancient history, very ancient. Ulysses is supposed to have visited it after leaving the Island of the Lotus-eaters, which is supposed to be Djéba. Then after the death of Hannibal some of his lieutenants, one supposes, settled there. Then after the fall of the Temple, when many Jews went to Djéba, some more went on to Sekkou; and just as there is supposed to be a stone of the temple at Djéba, so there is one at Sekkou. Then there are maybe some Greeks, and maybe some Maltese — I mean to say Malts or Maltese — and three used to be Italians. But otherwise there are perhaps 40 per cent Arabs and 60 per cent Arabes."

"Israelis," asked Allan, puzzled.

"No, no; Hebrews. They have always been there, you see, from the fall of the Temple, except that they have been reinforced from Andalusia at the time of the Spanish persecutions. The point I wish to make is that Kaid Larg's Corsairs were of different stock to all the others; officially, no doubt, they were Mussulman, in order to keep amicable with the Bey; but at heart they were different people. And they have always remained so. Now, I have been to Sekkou, several times; there are antiquities there of the most great interest. If you go into the Musée Alaoui here, I will show you some of the antiquities which I have brought back from Sekkou. If you were going to Sekkou to swim at the plage of the Hotel Asdrubal, or to visit the synagogues, which you should certainly do — then I say 'all right.' But if you are going there as Colonel Larg to find out traces of your ancestors — well, in that case, Colonel —"

"He took a swig at his Pernod."

"Come, Monsieur, don't leave me in the air like that," said Allan, laughing, but deeply intrigued. "What'll I find?"

Le Boutellier wiped his mouth delicately. "After they will shut up like oysters, in which case you will find but nothing at all; or you will find some very funny things."

"What sort of things?"

"You will forgive me for posing this question, but you are not an any secret mission. Allan could not help laughing as he declared an expedition with the sister British Secret Service."

"If you are considering taking Madame with you, don't go by Naïl."

Allan thought it better to drop the point.

"Tell me more about Sekkou."

"I must go back to my office very soon. But first about your ancestor. He was a very big pasha for many years, and then he became independent of the Bey. Larg was then very old, but he defied the Bey and held out against him for many years. And then at last many of his ships were sunk in a storm, and the Bey's troops landed, and in a last great battle they destroyed his castle. And just as nearly 200 years before, the great Corsair Dragut had heaped up a pyramid of the skulls of the massacred Spaniards at Djéba, so the Bey's troops heaped up a pyramid of the skulls of Larg's men on the beach at Sekkou. By the way, is your crest a bird holding a sword in its beak?

"It is, yes. Why?"

"Because Larg's standard is in the Beylical Palace still, and it bears that crest. But Larg himself they never caught; and they recited secretly the story that he lived on to be a Metusalem, hidden somewhere in Sekkou — just like Lawrence of Arabia and Hitler."

And he took another swig of Pernod.

"One last question — I know you want to get back to your office, and I'm awfully grateful to you for giving up so much of your time. No, two questions: Are there many French on Sekkou?"

"Not more than half a dozen. The priest, Pere Paleologue, he's been there 30 years, and you will find him very sympathetic; tell him you're a friend of Le Boutellier. An Officier des Affaires Indigènes comes over from Naïl from time to time. There is a doctor, I think, and probably a dispenser. The hotelier you might link was French; but he was educated in France; but he is a Sektouga. You will find him good company, but — toujours Sekkou-gais. Your second question?"

"What was my ancestor called out here? Did he stick to the name of Larg?"

"In his early days in Tunis, he called himself Captain Larg at first; but later he took a Turkish

Five More Earthquakes Are Recorded

NEW YORK. (UP) — The Rev. Joseph Lynch of Fordham University reported today his seismograph had recorded five new earthquakes since yesterday morning, all from the vicinity of the Aleutian Islands.

The strongest, at 6:05 a. m. (CST) today, registered a magnitude of about seven on a scale of 10. Two others, one at 1:40 p. m. (CST) today and the other at 3:58 a. m. (CST) today, registered about five on a scale of 10. Father Lynch said.

The others were registered yesterday at 10:06 a. m. and 10:15 a. m.

The Quakes, apparently after-shocks of the quakes that sent a five-foot tidal wave rolling toward Hawaii Saturday morning, were recorded on seismographs from Berkeley, Calif., to Weston, Mass.

The strongest quake was recorded around 7 a. m. EST today. The University of California at Berkeley set it at 6:52 EST and recorded it at a magnitude of 7 on the Richter scale of 10. The Fordham University seismograph in New York City recorded it beginning at 8:58 a. m. CST and also logged it at 7 on a scale of 10.

Seismologist Don Tocher at Berkeley said the quake still registered at 7:50 a. m. CST.

The Rev. Daniel Linehan at Weston college, Weston, Mass., recorded the shock at 5:58 a. m. CST.

Father Lynch said the quake may prove to have registered as high as 7.0 but said he didn't think it would be as strong as the big shock last Saturday which proved to be of a magnitude of about 8.5.

He called himself Al Merhametiz.

Vice President Nixon Now in Ethiopia

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia, (UP) — Vice President Richard M. Nixon flies here today for a two-day visit with Emperor Haile Selassie and a first-hand look at reports of Egyptian subversion against the ancient kingdom.

Nixon's plane left Kampala, Uganda, at 5 a. m. EST and he was to arrive in the late afternoon. Two potential downpours have swept Addis Ababa for several days, and officials feared the rainy season might interfere with the reception arrangements.

Nixon is expected to discuss Ethiopia's recent request for additional aid as well as recent broadcast appeals by Cairo for the Muslim arm of Ethiopia to break away from the Coptic Christian government and form a Moslem state. There also were reports Egypt has trained youths for subversive activities here.

Addis Ababa, and Khartoum, the capital of the Sudan which he visits later this week, are as close as Nixon will come to the turbulent Suez Canal zone during his African trip. Addis Ababa itself is 1,500 miles from the Suez but lies across the Red sea from Yemen and other trouble spots.

Ethiopia has remained primarily a neutral in Egypt's dispute with the West, but did support the West's insistence on international control of the Suez Canal. Also has given wholehearted support to the Eisenhower Doctrine for the Middle East.

Nixon will lay wreaths on the tombs of Ethiopian warriors who fought against fascism and communism—victims of the Italian invasion and men who died fighting in Korea.

Nixon will stay at the jubilee palace, the new imperial guest-house specially built to commemorate Haile Selassie's silver jubilee in November, 1955 and only recently completed. The palace, which is reminiscent of Buckingham Palace, stands in splendid grounds overlooking the Filtwa river.

How come the new Ford rides so smooth and solid?

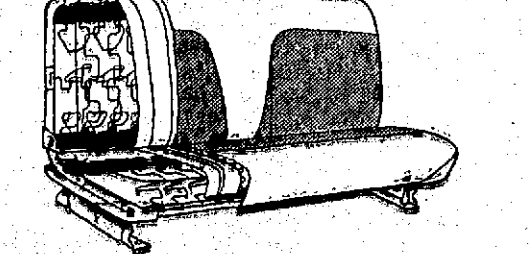

It's the new inner Ford that gives you a big-car ride at low Ford prices

Folks just naturally love Ford's longer, lower silhouette. And they love Ford's new, more powerful Thunderbird V-8's and Mileage Maker Six. But the thing that's really got 'em buzzing is Ford's new kind of ride. In the new kind of Ford these vital riding features team up to give you the smoothest going in the whole ride world. They're demonstrated elsewhere on this page.

New automatic variable-rate rear springs
Getting from a highway to a byway in a Ford, is like going from satin to silk. New design allows Ford's rear springs to "loosen" or "stiffen" depending on road conditions. You get a smooth ride all the way!

New sweet-back ball-joint front suspension
Ford's new, stronger front suspension is designed to soak up the shock of rough roads. The new sweet-back design lets wheels "roll" with the bump and absorb it going away . . . for far smoother, steadier sailing.

More comfortable seating
There's no sag when you sit in a Ford . . . even on long trips. Comfort-contoured seats, rigidly anchored, have advanced springing for greater comfort and longer life.

More weight and length
Head for the roughest road in the new kind of Ford. Notice how the biggest bumps lose their "hump." One reason is that this biggest, longest, heaviest Ford has the extra "beef" to give a smooth, road-hugging ride.

New lower-pressure tires
Even Ford's tires are new for a better ride! Although they require less air pressure, they hold about 17% more air for cushioning the car. This means a softer ride—without sacrifice of Ford's good handling characteristics.

Mo metal-to-metal chassis and body control
Only Ford in its field uses 20 Cushion Quiet rubber body mounts . . . more than any other low-priced car. It all adds up to a smoother, quieter riding car.

New Look Is Passe, G. I. Tailors Fast

Is Paris really the style capitol of the world? Not so, for as the Army Quartermaster Corps is concerned.

Uncle Sam's spruced up Army is adding uniforms and clothing accessories so rapidly these days civilian outfitters can't keep pace.

Warner Bros. changed its plans to make clothing for the actors playing soldiers in "The Girl He Left Behind," starring Tab Hunter and Natalie Wood, opening Wednesday at the Saenger Theatre, when studio tailors and wardrobe men admitted they were overwhelmed by the wide variety of apparel worn by today's Army men.

Instead the studio arranged to rent necessary clothes from the Army. Even the apparel for Hunter will be regular issue, not tailor fitted.

Most enlisted men and officers are now permitted to wear blue scarfs in place of the traditional tan or black tie and shirt. White spats and white belt are favored by military police. Shoulder braid can be done by enlisted men under certain regulations.

Helmet liners come in blue, orange, white, brown, chrome or red and some have highly polished insignia have taken on an individualistic note.

"The Girl He Left Behind" was filmed at Fort Ord, near Monterey, California. Members of the 11th Infantry Regiment and the 5th Division appear in the scenes, which show training of inductees.

China's mainland population estimated at more than 82 million in 1953, is increasing at the rate of 12 million people a year. There are now 53,000 motels throughout the country, compared with 15,000 in 1940.

Rubbing with snow is never advisable in treatment of frost bite. Holding the frost bitten part against another part of the body to aid thawing is better.

The cloche returns in full force this spring in company with other hats that have the look of the 1930's. These are definitely new hats, however, so don't rescue an old cloche from the attic. They are far more shallow and far prettier. Profile cloche by Walter Florell is in blue ballbun straw (upper left), is draped with a soft hand and floating streamers of printed chiffon. From Christian Dior-New York comes (upper center) this young profile hat in ice blue straw with big cluster of bachelor buttons. The coffee-colored square-crowned cloche by Beatrice-Martin (upper right) has brim faced with white. Crown is banded in gray-and-white and there's a filmy veil. This same designer uses pale mauve straw (lower left) for round-crowned 1930 cloche with banding of velvet and feather bird trim. The tall, wind-swept cloche (lower center) of burnt strawbraid is by Chanda. It has tiny brim faced in white and icy brown mesh face veil. A 1930 cloche (lower right) by Sally Victor has off-face rippled brim and cockade of gray ribbon. These are truly small, close-fitting and flattering hats.

DOROTHY DIX GIRL SEEKS TACTFUL WAY TO AVOID PETTING BOUT

Dear Dorothy Dix: I've been dating for a year and recently went out with a very nice boy, who is liked by my family. We had a few pleasant dates, then one night he tried to turn the evening into a petting session. I ordered him to take my home and never try to see me again. I guess I was a bit too severe and should have handled the situation more tactfully. But now?

Pauline

Dear Pauline: Most girls go through the same experience in the course of their dating days. The nicest boys will sometimes try to see just what the traffic will bear. They're quick, however, to take cues from the girl and if her reaction is resoundingly negative, they don't overstep bounds again.

You can be emphatic without giving a full-blown performance of outraged dignity. A good-humored reaction anyone's feelings. Curb the ardor with a flippancy remark.

Want more advice on The Petting Problem? Send for my leaflet, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope. I'm sure it will help you.

Dear Dorothy Dix: After a year of going together, Red has asked me to marry him. He's a very considerable guy, but I don't know whether I could be happy with him or not. He's lame, and walks with a limp.

Irma

Dear Irma: You wouldn't be happy, because you don't love the man. A girl in love would be proud to marry him and have him as the father of her children. She certainly wouldn't think of a slight physical handicap as an obstacle to happiness.

Dear Dorothy Dix: For four years Garlner and I have loved each other. All this time I've had to see him on sneak dates, as neither wouldn't permit me to date boys of a different religion. He wants me to tell my folks how I feel about him, but I can't. My choice seems to be losing him or giving up my family.

Nita

Dear Nita: Knowing your parents' attitude, you never should have gone with Gardner. I know any religion would frown on sneak dating, involving, as it does, deception, lies, and dishonesty to your folks.

I strongly urge that you have an interview with clergymen of both faiths. They can present the difficulties you will face and the decisions to be made, which are too involved to be given here.

Dear Dorothy Dix: My boy friend calls me every night and he is quite a talker. My mother gets mad because we talk so long. She often cuts me off in the middle of an interesting conversation.

Belle

Dear Belle: Teen-agers—God's gift to the telephone companies! Your boy friend might as well learn to control his talkativeness while he's young or he'll develop into a man who hogs the conversation anywhere.

Ask Mom to set a time limit for you, convey the restriction to the boy friend, and buy him an alarm clock so he'll know when time's up. Leaving something to say for the next day will add spice to your life.

New GI's Not Familiar With Rolling Bones

Is crap shooting becoming a lost art in the Army?

Warner Bros. film director, David Butler had to conduct a search lasting several days at the Fort Ord base to find a dozen young soldiers who knew enough about the game to conduct a crap shooting scene for "The Girl He Left Behind" opening Wednesday at the Saenger Theatre.

A preliminary hearing is scheduled at West Memphis tomorrow. J. W. Orman, 65, was killed when a Negro fired through a glass door after the attendant disobeyed a command to "stick 'em up," a witness told police.

A shotgun which an unidentified witness told police had been buried by Walker has been recovered.

The picture, starring Tab Hunter and Natalie Wood, was filmed at the training center near Monterey, Calif., with real troops appearing in many of the scenes with the professional actors.

"When I started to rehearse the soldiers for the crap shooting scene," said Butler, "I could see right away that none of them knew how to handle the dice. They didn't show any reaction when seven or eleven came up, or when a player made his point."

"Rather than try to teach them the game I sent for experienced soldiers and had a hard time getting them. I could have gotten older men, but I wanted kids who looked about 22, and they didn't know any more about craps than they did calvary horses."

Watershed Bill Is Rejected By the House

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The Arkansas House of Representatives yesterday defeated a Senate measure which would have authorized establishment of watershed districts to aid surface water conservation.

As it entered the last week of the current session, the House was confronted by a near-record logjam on 1957-59 appropriation measures.

The lower chamber disposed of only a few of the 100 money bills awaiting consideration before the Legislature adjourns at noon Thursday.

Passage of the budget bills is necessary if state agencies and institutions are to keep functioning after July 1, when present appropriations run out.

The watershed bill was a follow-up to another water rights measure for creation of a 7-member Water Conservation Commission. The districts would have been formed under direction of this body.

The commission bill resulted from a 2-year study of water rights legislation authorized by the 1955 Legislature, but opponents contended that the entire study group had not endorsed the watershed bill.

Vote against the watershed measure was 46-39.

The House amended the state Highway Department's appropriation to guarantee a minimum wage to lower-paid employees and finally approved the state Welfare Department budget.

Probers Set to Seize Beck's Records

By G. MILTON KELLY

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senate rack-ets investigators prepared today to subpoena Teamsters Union President Dave Beck and seize his financial records unless he agrees quickly to "be cooperative." Beck indicated he would comply with their requests before being subpoenaed.

The teamster chief returned un-heralded from Europe yesterday, dodged reporters in New York, refused to be interviewed in Chicago, and flew on to his home in Seattle.

Arriving there, Beck said "I don't think so when he was asked by newsmen whether he would wait for a subpoena. He said he expected to go to Washington 'very soon.' Beck declined to answer any other questions.

Beck's Teamsters Union—the nation's biggest—has been the focus so far of a special Senate committee's search for evidence of racketeering influences in labor and industry.

For the past two weeks, the committee has received testimony that West Coast teamster officials were linked with underworld figures and some public office vice in efforts to take over.

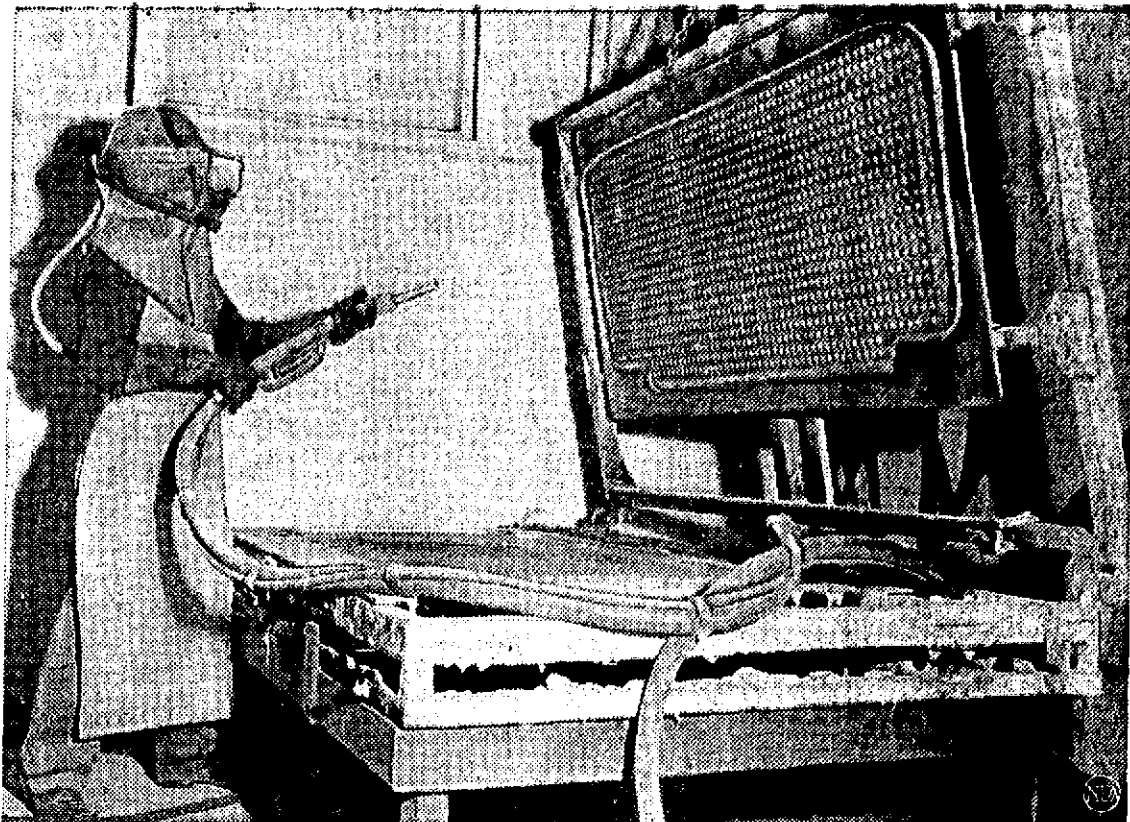

The hearings are in Portland, Ore. The hearings are in recess until tomorrow.

The committee has said it wants to question Beck about charges that union funds were used to pay some of his personal bills, and about the activities of some of his lieutenants.

Informed of Beck's return, Sen. McClellan (D-Ark), chairman of the racketeering investigating group, told a newsman:

"I just assume he (Beck) will get in touch with the committee now that he's back.

Other committee sources said a subpoena was being drafted to summon Beck before the committee and to seize his personal financial records if he does not agree within a day or two to "be cooperative."

Long Range Aid Plan Is Ike's Goal

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower made a pitch last year for long-range foreign aid. It wasn't a very strong pitch and he lost. This year, with some outside help, he may try again.

Congress has steadfastly clung to the idea of aid on a year-by-year basis. The president's disaster proclamation so the territory could obtain federal funds for the job of repairing the damage.

Gov. Samuel Wilber King of Hawaii declared the north coast of Kauai Island a disaster area. Territorial officials estimated the damage at "hundreds of thousands of dollars."

The tidal wave washed away two small villages, destroying 30 homes and four bridges. Damage was slight elsewhere in the Hawaiian Islands, but the beaches were littered with dead fish and debris.

Gov. King toured the disaster area yesterday. He then issued a year basis ever since 1948 when, with the Marshall Plan, this country first set up foreign assistance on a big scale.

Economic aid is designed to help backward and underdeveloped countries. But the year-by-year arrangements prevents this country from planning development which takes years to complete.

For example, river and harbor and waterpower development, or highways and railroads.

So in 1956 Eisenhower asked Congress to approve a permit aid program which would permit carrying on some projects for as much as 10 years. He didn't ask for money for 10 years, all in a lump. But he wanted congressional promises that would make long-range planning possible.

He ran into stiff opposition and apparently backed away. Neither he or his aides made much of a fight. Instead, he concentrated on trying to get Congress to give him the full $4,900,000,000 he has asked for one year. Congress didn't go along on that either. It cut more than a billion off his request.

But there was agreement between Eisenhower and Congress that it was time for some fairly thorough studies on the whole problem of foreign aid. The Senate Foreign Relations Committee hired 11 research organizations and assigned 10 men familiar with foreign affairs to do the job.

Two different groups appointed by Eisenhower went to work. They were made up of representatives of business, labor, agriculture and the public. One was headed by Benjamin F. Fairless, steel executive, and the other, continuing advisory body, by Eric Johnston.

The Senate study reports have been pouring out in recent weeks. Most of them favor long-term aid. In the past week the Fairless and Johnston groups have reported.

They favor long-term aid.

So if Eisenhower wants to propose a 10-year program again this year he has a lot of support—at least outside Congress. Its still questionable the full Congress will go along with the idea.

And right now inside the Eisenhower administration it is understood some of the President's

31 Escape When Airliner Flops Over

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Thirty-one persons escaped serious injury yesterday when an Eastern Airlines plane touched a Standiford Field runway, bounced 50 feet into the air, flipped over, then skidded 100 feet on its back.

Only one person, William A. Brown, 61, Birmingham, Ala., was hospitalized. Six others were treated for minor cuts and bruises and released.

One passenger, Andrew F. Andler, Chicago, said the twin-engine Martin 404 came down hard, bounced and then veered toward a muddy field.

"The next thing I knew, we were upside down with a lot of runway going by in a hurry. Then we stopped. That's about all."

The planes fuselage was battered but intact; the left wing tripped off. Fragments were strewn over a 150-foot area.

The cause was still unknown. The three crew members refused to comment and a Civil Aeronautics Board was investigating.

Capt. C. G. Chambers of Chicago, the pilot, said: "We were coming in on Runway 11. We ended up on Runway 6. That's the way it was."

Several passengers noted that they called a steep glide before touching ground.

Said Maj. Donald Ferris, Las Vegas, Nev., an Air Force jet pilot: "The plane was line up on a good approach at a steep approach angle."

"We lost altitude pretty fast," said L. B. Faulkner, Bessemer, Ala., "and then mushroomed out. Passengers scrambled from the wreckage almost immediately after the plane came to a grinding halt."

Several passengers credited Andler with stopping any possible panic.

Fred Wber, Indianapolis, said Andler's cool voice cut through the few cries of frightened women to reassure everyone on board.

Mexican Olympic Swimmer Drowns

ACAPULCO, Mexico — (UP)—Apollonio Castillo, Mexican Olympic swimming champion was drowned early today while searching Acapulco harbor for the bodies of two murdered New York tourists.

Castillo, 32, was one of several frogmen looking for the bodies of Attorney Joseph Michel, 70, and Mrs. Edith Hallock, 68, who were killed and tossed into the harbor by a Mexican travel agent and his illiterate handy man.

Castillo, who represented Mexico in the 1948 Olympics, was wearing an aqualung when he disappeared. It was not known if his oxygen failed.

Luis Fenton, 33, a hotel tourist agency owner and Daniel Rio's yesterday admitted beating Michel and Mrs. Hallock to death with a baseball bat on Feb. 20, robbing them of $90,000 worth of jewelry and about $100 in cash, and tossing their bodies, bound in chains, from a glass-bottom boat.

top advisers are likely to long-range commitments.

Johnston's group expressed belief there is wide misunderstanding in this country on the amount and kind of aid being given. This is a brief breakdown:

Of the $3,000,000,000 billion voted by Congress last year, about two billion is in military assistance, another $1,000,000,000 in economic help to the nations getting military assistance, and 250 millions for economic development in neutral countries.

The remainder goes to international agencies, to technical assistance, into presidential funds for emergency relief, or to the cost of administering the program.

The Johnston group reported that roughly two thirds of the non-military aid goes to six countries: Turkey, Pakistan, Iran, South Korea, Viet Nam, and the Nationalist Republic of China. They have a population of 178 millions.

The remaining third goes to underdeveloped countries having a population of 900 million.

Man in Kidnap Case Gives Up To Police

MANILA, (AP)—A 26-year-old man charged in connection with the March 4 kidnaping of a cab driver at Jackson, Miss., walked into police headquarters here yesterday and surrendered, Deputy Sheriff Lee Baker said.

Baker said Mal Miller Jr., of Martin, Miss., told local officers and FBI agents that he had spent the previous night at the home of a friend at this northeast Arkansas town. Miller told officers that he had hitchhiked from New Orleans and had planned to meet his wife. His original destination was not disclosed.

A M. Bryant, agent in charge of the Federal Bureau of Investigation at Little Rock, said Miller was charged with interstate transportation of a stolen car and with kidnapping William Miller, a Jackson, Miss., cab driver.

The cab driver told the FBI at New Orleans March 5 that four men had forced him at knife and gun point to drive to the outskirts of Jackson. Then, William Miller said, the men forced him into the back of the cab and held him captive during the drive to New Orleans.

The driver said he fled into some woods near New Orleans after the cab ran out of gas.

Baker said he understood robbery was the motive for the kidnaping.

Bryant said the arrest at Manila was the second in the case. FBI agents recently arrested Odell Edwards, Robertson at Silver Creek, Miss., he said.

Mal Miller was scheduled to be brought before U. S. Commissioner Carson Boothe at Jonesboro today. He was held overnight in jail at Blytheville, Bryant said.

Steed White Named to UA Coaching Staff

PAYETTEVILLE (AP)—Steed White head football coach at Fort Smith High School, was appointed to the University of Arkansas football staff today.

Head Coach Jack Mitchell, in announcing the appointment, said that he now has "the best-balanced staff I ever worked with. He added that White will work with the linemen.

Presumably White will work closely with George Bernhardt, "It was just a matter of arranging a simple boat ride," mastermind Luis Fenton, 33, told police.

DiBiase Whips Giovanelli

NEW YORK (AP)—Having knocked off Danny Giovanelli to increase his unbeaten streak to 19, Tony Di-Biase began hitting the books today.
Di Biase, a geology student at NYU, was given a week's postponement of a couple of mid-term exams so he could concentrate on Giovanelli, an intra-city rival, in the 10-round television bout at St.
Nicholas Arena last night.
He gave the taller and more experienced Giovanelli a neat shellacing in winning the unanimous decision. Referee Petye Scalzo and Judge Leo Birnbaum each made it 8-3-1, while Judge Al Singer made it 8-2.
An 7-5 underdog, DiBiase at 148
pounds appeared much stronger than his 150-pound foe.

Tar Heels Meet Yale in NCAA Play Tonight

By NORMAN MILLER
United Press Sports Writer

Unbeaten North Carolina, the nations No. 1 team riding a 27-game winning streak, is favored to beat Yale tonight when the NCAA basketball tournament whirls into action with a total of six games in three different cities.

Idaho State officially opened the court carnival last night by beating Hardin-Simmons, 68-57, in a first-rounder at Pocatello, Idaho.

Here is tonight's lineup:
At New York City North Carolina (27-0) a 13-point choice over Yale (18-7); Syracuse (16-6) favored by five over Connecticut (17-7);
and West Virginia (25-4) even money against Canisius (20-5).

At Columbus, Ohio — Notre Dame (18-7) favored by 10 over Miami of Ohio, and Pittsburgh (15-9) even money against Morehead
(19-7).

At Oklahoma City — Oklahoma
City (17-8) favored by 15 over Loyola of the South (15-10).

Nine of the tournaments 23 teams, including such high-ranked powers as Kentucky and Southern Methodist, drew first-round byes and await the winners of the first-round games in four regional tournaments this weekend at Philadelphia, Lexington, Ky., Dallas,
Tex., and Corvallis, Ore.

The tourney's opening game last night saw Idaho State pull away from Hardin-Simmons in the second half after being held to a 32-30 halftime margin. Idaho State qualified to meet defending champion San Francisco at Corvallis on Friday.

North Carolina, just named today as the nation's No. 1 team at the end of the regular season by the United Press Board of Coaches, must add five more wins to its glittering record in order to capture the NCAA tournament. If the Tar Heels can do that, they will also break the all-time collegiate record of 29 straight victories in a single season set by last year's NCAA champion, San Francisco.

Oklahoma City is picked over Loyola although the Louisiana squad handed the Chets a 67-61 setback during the season. Loyola is expected to use the same zone defense it employed in that game
but six-nine Loyola center Bill Schweiberger is a doubtful starter because of a back injury.

Sen. Guy H. Jones of Conway, author of the measure, estimated it would have produced an additional $1,400,000 annually.

Vote against the bill was 21-10.
The upper chamber devoted most of the day to appropriation bills. It passed 62 and left only seven to be acted on.

One of the bills still pending is a proposal to give class room teachers an extra $75 in salary immediately. It came up for consideration late in the day. Sen. Clarence Ball of Parkin got it withdrawn temporarily. He said he needed more time to study it.

The bill would appropriate one million dollars from the increased sales tax collections to give teachers the extra 175 before June 30. It was passed by the House last week.

Gov. Orval Faubus has opposed the measure and has indicated he would veto it if it passed.

He said teachers were not provided an immediate pay raise although one is planned later — when his tax plan was proposed.

He also said such an immediate raise would snoop into funds for a construction program he is sponsoring.

One of the appropriation bills passed by the Senate yesterday gives the State Hospital $12,304, 000 for the next two years.

The upper chamber also passed measures to:

Let 15 per cent of the qualified voters in a city petition for an election to name a board of directors after the city has voted approval of city manager government.

Provide for annexing county school districts to adjoining districts when a county school board decides to abolish the post of county supervisor.

Require that children enter ing school in September be six years old by Nov. 1.

Tennis was introduced to the United States by way of the Staten Island Cricket Club about 1874.
